The University In Your Future

Imagine studying physics with Galileo, math with Sir Isaac Newton, or philosophy with Socrates.

Those would be opportunities too good to let pass by. Why? Because those scientists pushed the frontiers of human knowledge.

How about learning chemistry from a scientist whose experiments regularly fly aboard the space shuttle? Or business from professors who are merging management and technology. Or engineering from researchers who are perfecting a holographic TV.

Those would also be opportunities too good to let pass by.

They are real opportunities for students at UAH, one of the top research universities in the nation.

UAH removes barriers between teaching and research. UAH professors take their research into the classroom. (At UAH less than 2 percent of classes are taught by graduate teaching assistants.) And UAH brings students into its world-class, cutting-edge research labs.

UAH undergrads are involved in research projects in all departments on campus, from building experiments for suborbital rockets to developing special lenses or exploring possible medical uses for plants in tropic jungles.

Learning doesn't stop at the classroom door, so UAH students are building a satellite (honest!), helping high-tech industry solve real-life management and marketing problems, and working with patients in some of the most modern medical facilities in the region.

Through cooperative education or part-time employment arranged through the university, hundreds of UAH students get hands-on work experience in companies and government agencies engaged in space exploration, defense, electronics, computer hardware and software, optics, and much, much more.

UAH is large enough to offer a broad choice of study options, but small enough to retain its sense of each student as an individual. Academic standards are high. And unique opportunities beyond the classroom abound.

UAH See for yourself what the opportunities are at UAH.

Tuition, Scholarships & Financial Aid

The cost of a college education is an important consideration. According to US News & World Report, UAH is the second-ranked "Best Buy" in the Southeast. (The top-ranked school doesn't charge tuition or fees, which isn't really fair.) Average tuition, fees, room and board for a full-time undergraduate student at UAH is about $6,390 per academic year.

UAH students received more than $5 million in financial aid in 1991-1992. The UAH Financial Aid Office can help with everything from financial planning to packaging aid through scholarships, work-study, loans and grants. The deadline for scholarship applications is February 1, while the deadline for other need-based financial aid is March 1.

Student Life

UAH provides a complete college experience, including a rich and varied extracurricular program. There are more than 80 student clubs and organizations on campus, including dozens of honor societies, pre-professional clubs, sororities and fraternities. Cabarets, films, dances, concerts and lectures are offered throughout the year. UAH offers a full slate of intramural sports. And the UAH Chargers field varsity teams in basketball, soccer, volleyball,
tennis, rowing and the southernmost
NCAA ice ho-cke team in the U.S.!

On-campus Housing

UAH's new residence hall offers modern comforts and privacy in the heart of the UAH campus. Each four-bedroom suite has private sleeping areas and semi-private bath and study. University housing is limited. Students interested in living on campus should apply early.

On-campus child care for three- and four-year-old children is available in the Child Development Center at Kilby School. Hours of operation are 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. For information, call the CDC at (205) 760-4244 or Kilby School at (205) 760-4303.

UNA has a traditional collegiate atmosphere. The beautiful campus is filled with flowering dogwoods and spreading oaks, as well as buildings that appear on the National Register of Historic Places. In addition to a wide variety of quality academic programs, UNA offers a full range of traditional collegiate activities, including intercollegiate athletics, band, theatre, fraternities and sororities, and residence hall living.

UNA's size and caring environment enable the individual student to take full advantage of the diverse academic and extracurricular activities. Classes are small, maximizing the interaction between student and professor, as well as among students. Social and leadership opportunities are also fostered by the size of the University.

The Area—

UNA is located in Florence, Alabama, which is in the Shoals area, in the northwestern part of the state. The Florence/Shoals area has a population of 137,000 and is located on the beautiful Tennessee River. The Shoals is noted for the recreational opportunities afforded by the river, for its music industry, and for being the birthplace of Helen Keller and blues great W. C. Handy.

Academics— The focus of UNA is personalized, quality undergraduate education. There is an average class size of 25 and a student-faculty ratio of 20:1. The academic programs, which feature such unique majors as industrial hygiene and commercial music, include nationally accredited programs in areas such as education, nursing, social work, art, music, and chemistry.
